Healthcare Weekly News and Deals – June 27th, 2025

1. GetixHealth Acquires Americollect with H.I.G. Capital and Cordish Dixon Private Equity Fund I Backing to Enhance Patient Financial Solutions

   The acquisition combines GetixHealth's revenue cycle management expertise with Americollect's patient engagement capabilities, creating a comprehensive financial solutions provider for healthcare organizations. H.I.G. Capital's investment enables technological and operational scaling to improve outcomes for both companies' clients. Americollect CEO Kenlyn Gretz emphasized cultural alignment, while GetixHealth CEO Kevin Lonergan highlighted shared commitments to compassionate patient interactions. H.I.G.'s Anthony Chambers noted the deal strengthens GetixHealth's market leadership in patient financial experiences. The transaction expands GetixHealth's service offerings through Americollect's Wisconsin-based platform, supported by H.I.G.'s $70B in assets under management. (Link)

2. Solis Mammography Secures Investment from TowerBrook Capital Partners

   Solis Mammography, a leading provider of breast health services, has secured new investment from TowerBrook Capital Partners, joining existing backers Madison Dearborn Partners and Ares Management. The move underscores growing private equity interest in specialized healthcare services, particularly in women's health. TowerBrook now lists Solis Mammography as a portfolio company, reflecting confidence in Solis's advanced, patient-focused approach to mammography. This partnership is expected to accelerate Solis's expansion and innovation in breast health, further strengthening its position as a national leader in the sector. (Link)

3. CoachCare Acquires MD Revolution to Form Largest Remote Care Platform in U.S via its financial sponsors Catalyst Investors, Everberg Capital, Integrity Growth Partners, Kli Capital, Longmont Capital and Topmark Partners

   The merger creates the nation's most comprehensive remote care solution, serving 250+ healthcare organizations and 500K+ patients across RPM, CCM, and value-based models. Combining CoachCare's device ecosystem and clinical services with MD Revolution's EHR-integrated software strengthens support for providers facing reimbursement declines and staffing shortages. The deal—CoachCare's ninth and largest—enhances technology, expands device offerings, and ensures scalability for health systems and ACOs. Backed by $100M+ in funding, the unified platform addresses chronic care, behavioural health, and transitional management. MD Revolution will operate under CoachCare while maintaining continuity for clients. Both CEOs emphasized the merger's potential to reduce costs while improving outcomes. (Link)

4. Aledade Acquires CCA's Michigan Value-Based Care Operations to Expand Primary Care Network

   The acquisition includes CCA's Michigan-based ACO and Physician Organization, along with their employees, strengthening Aledade's support for independent primary care providers in value-based arrangements. This follows Aledade's 2023 purchase of Medical Advantage, further establishing its statewide presence—now encompassing 1,500+ physicians across 180+ practices.

The deal enhances Aledade's infrastructure for helping Michigan providers transition to outcome-focused care models. As the largest U.S. network of independent primary care, Aledade continues consolidating value-based operations to scale its physician-led ACO platform, which prioritizes quality and cost efficiency in Medicare and other risk-bearing contracts. The move reflects growing demand for alternatives to fee-for-service healthcare. (Link)

5. Best Point Education & Butler Behavioral Health Merge to Create $65M Ohio Mental Health Powerhouse

   The merger creates Ohio's largest nonprofit behavioural health provider with 650 employees, expanding services from 30 to 50+ programs for children and adults across multiple counties. Best Point CEO John Banchy selected Butler after evaluating five other partners, citing their clinical reputation and leadership stability. The combined $65M annual revenue will fund staff training, facility upgrades, and potential geographic expansion after operational integration. Butler will operate as a subsidiary while maintaining its brand. Both CEOs emphasized the merger's potential to reduce waitlists and enhance crisis care in Southwest Ohio. Integration teams will align benefits, operations, and service continuity over the next year before considering new programs. (Link)

6. Med-Metrix Secures Growth Investment from Harvest Partners with Continued Backing from A&M Capital

   The private equity investment will accelerate Med-Metrix's technology-enabled revenue cycle management solutions for U.S. health systems and physician groups. CEO Joseph Davi and management will continue leading the company, retaining significant ownership alongside A&M Capital's minority stake. Founded in 2010, Med-Metrix offers end-to-end RCM services powered by proprietary analytics platforms. The partnership with Harvest—known for healthcare services expertise—aims to scale the business amid growing demand for financial optimization in provider organizations. While financial terms were undisclosed, the deal reinforces Med-Metrix's market position following AMC's prior backing, combining operational continuity with fresh capital to enhance technology and client performance in a competitive RCM landscape. 7. Current Health Founder Christopher McGee Repurchases Company from Best Buy

   McGee aims to revive Current Health's entrepreneurial agility while maintaining its focus on home-based care innovation. The company's platform uses biosensors to track patient health and alert clinicians to potential issues. The buyback signals a strategic shift toward faster iteration and customer-centric development in the growing healthcare-at-home sector. Emphasizing patient safety and operational flexibility, McGee seeks to position Current Health as a leader in decentralized care models. Best Buy had originally acquired the remote monitoring startup in 2021 for $400M to expand its senior care offerings. Terms of the repurchase were not disclosed. The move restores founder-led vision to the health tech company. (Link)

8. 360 Healthcare Inc. Acquires East Ohio Regional Hospital, Plans Fall Reopening

   The facility, which closed in March 2024, will undergo restoration before resuming operations this fall. President Harold Ramsey of Rising River Capital LLC is coordinating with CMS and Ohio health officials to secure accreditation. A physician group will open offices first, followed by full hospital services, with plans to rehire former employees. Belmont County confirmed tax negotiations as part of the acquisition. The reopening aims to restore critical care access for Martins Ferry and surrounding communities, continuing the hospital's legacy in the Upper Ohio Valley. Job fairs will be announced soon to rebuild the clinical workforce. (Link)

9. Panos Partners Expands DICOT Platform with Desert Imaging Acquisition and Recapitalization

   The deal grows Diagnostic Imaging Centers of Texas (DICOT) to 23 locations across Texas, adding Desert Imaging's El Paso operations. Panos Partners simultaneously recapitalized DICOT and established new financing for litigation-related receivables. Panos Managing Partner Bryan Scott highlighted enhanced patient access to litigation-based healthcare services through the combination. DICOT CEO Todd Greene emphasized strategic alignment with Desert Imaging's diagnostic imaging expertise and growth potential. The transaction strengthens DICOT's position as a leading Texas provider of outpatient diagnostic imaging and pain management services. The recapitalization provides liquidity to support continued expansion of the platform across multiple Texas markets while maintaining focus on litigation-funded healthcare offerings. (Link)

10. h/care Expands Home Health Footprint with Acquisition of American Premier in Phoenix

    The deal strengthens h/care's hub-and-spoke expansion strategy in high-growth senior markets, following its recent purchase of Ohio's VNA. Phoenix—where 18.8% of residents are 65+—becomes a key hub for the company's tech-enabled home health, hospice, and palliative care services. CEO Ryan Haller highlighted American Premier's strong regional reputation as a foundation for growth in Arizona and the Southwest. Managing Director Scott Scherpenberg will lead expansion efforts amid rising demand for home-based care, with state hospice utilization already exceeding 54%. Financial terms were undisclosed. The acquisition aligns with h/care's clinician-first model and targets the rapidly aging U.S. population. (Link)

11. Oliver Wyman, a subsidiary of Marsh & McLennan Companies (NYS: MMC), to Acquire Validate Health, Strengthening Healthcare Analytics Offerings

    The acquisition will integrate Validate Health's analytics platform into Oliver Wyman Actuarial, enhancing capabilities in cost management, risk assessment, and operational performance for healthcare providers and ACOs. Expected to close in summer 2025, the deal combines Oliver Wyman's actuarial expertise with Validate Health's data-driven tools to improve profitability, program efficiency, and patient outcomes. David Weinsier, Global Life and Health Leader at Oliver Wyman, emphasized the synergy in addressing healthcare's evolving challenges. Validate Health co-founder Andrew Webster highlighted the expanded reach and impact the partnership will bring. Financial terms remain undisclosed. The move positions the combined entity to better support clients in value-based care and financial risk management. (Link)

12. Acute Behavioral Health Expands Youth Mental Health Services with Oakwood Treatment Center Acquisition via its financial sponsors Harbert Management, Petra Capital Partners, Granite Growth Health Partners and Elm Creek Partners

    The acquisition strengthens ABH's presence in North Carolina, preserving critical psychiatric residential treatment for adolescents aged 12-17. Oakwood, formerly part of Nova Behavioral Health, offers 24/7 care, therapy, and academic support in a structured environment. CEO Mike McCulla emphasized alignment with ABH's mission to stabilize youth and transition them to lower care levels while maintaining family connections. The facility will operate under new ownership but continue serving the community, with plans to expand services. ABH focuses on evidence-based treatment for severe emotional and behavioural needs, reinforcing its commitment to accessible, high-quality mental health care for young people and their families. 13. Ultrack Systems and Synergy Health Rx Launch PUR Rx Digital Healthcare Platform in Canada

The 50/50 joint venture introduces a scalable digital health platform combining Ultrack's marketing and logistics expertise with Synergy Health's medical infrastructure. PUR Rx offers virtual care, prescription management, and secure provider-patient portals, targeting Canada's $4.7B digital health market. Ultrack will drive growth via targeted campaigns and a $10K/quarter marketing commitment, while Synergy ensures regulatory compliance and fulfilment. The platform differentiates itself through lower customer acquisition costs and integrated data ownership. Projecting 25-30% annual revenue growth, PUR Rx aims to expand nationally, capitalizing on telehealth demand. CEO Reno Calabrigo emphasized its potential to redefine accessible, patient-centric digital medicine. (Link)

14. Prompt Health Acquires PredictionHealth to Create AI-Powered Rehab Therapy Platform

The merger combines Prompt Health's clinic operations platform with PredictionHealth's AI scribe (Sidekick) and analytics tools (Practice Intel) to create an integrated EMR system for rehab therapy practices. The acquisition addresses industry challenges like staffing shortages and compliance pressures by embedding AI across clinical, billing, and administrative workflows. PredictionHealth's co-founders join Prompt in key leadership roles, bringing their expertise in AI and data science. The unified platform shifts from passive documentation to proactive intelligence, automating tasks like coding and no-show prediction while improving financial performance. The deal aims to reduce administrative burdens and enhance outcomes for physical, occupational, and speech therapy clinics. (Link)

15. Assura Accepts £1.79B PHP Merger, Rejecting KKR-Stonepeak Private Equity Bid

The merger creates a leading listed healthcare REIT, with Assura shareholders receiving 0.3865 PHP shares plus 12.5p cash per share—a 5.8% premium over KKR-Stonepeak's rival offer. Including dividends, the deal values Assura at 55p/share (47% above pre-offer levels). PHP secured the deal through a £1.23B loan facility, with Assura investors owning 48% of the combined entity. A "mix-and-match" option allows shareholders to adjust cash/stock ratios. Assura's board withdrew support for the private equity bid, endorsing PHP's scaled-up offer for its strategic benefits. The merger aims to enhance market position and shareholder value in healthcare property investments. (Link)

Venture and Other News

1. Certify Secures $40M Series B Led by Transformation Capital with General Catalyst, Upfront Ventures & SemperVirens
   The provider data intelligence company will use the funding to accelerate development of its end-to-end network management platform, which streamlines credentialing, licensing, and roster verification for health plans and digital health firms. The Series B follows Certify's 2022 $14.5M Series A and brings total funding to $69M. Recent product launches include RosterOS for delegated entities and a Salesforce App Exchange integration to enhance data synchronization. CEO Anshul Rathi emphasized the platform's role in reducing administrative burdens and improving care access by modernizing fragmented provider data systems. The capital will expand engineering, product innovation, and go-to-market efforts amid growing demand for automated network solutions. (Link)

2. SuperDial Secures $15M Series A Led by SignalFire with Slow Ventures, Box Group & Scrub Capital for Healthcare Voice AI
   The voice AI startup, founded by Stanford alumni, automates insurer calls for prior authorizations, claims follow-ups, and credentialing—handling 1M+ calls since its 2023 pivot from RCM. Its HIPAA-compliant agents (augmented by human backup) integrate with EHRs, reducing AR days and eliminating call backlogs for clients like West Coast Dental. The funding, including $3M in venture debt, will expand AI engineering and sales teams after acquiring IVR specialist MajorBoost. SignalFire's investment from its $1B AI fund highlights SuperDial's potential to replace billions of annual payer-provider calls with AI-to-AI communication, targeting healthcare's $1T administrative waste. Revenue hit seven figures within months of launch. (Link)

3. NexusMD Secures A$6.3M Seed Funding Led by Square Peg to Deploy AI in Australian Hospitals
   The Melbourne-based AI startup will deploy its clinical automation technology—already proven to boost emergency department efficiency by 30%—across Australian hospitals. NexusMD's AI agents convert ambient conversations and medical text into structured notes and coding, reducing administrative burdens. Founded by Baikemy Net alum Mike Zhu with Kevin Sun and Neo Nie, the company has been operational in three Victorian hospitals. The funding will expand its AI offerings to additional hospital units while maintaining integration with existing systems. Square Peg's James Tynan emphasized the tech's potential to alleviate clinician workloads. NexusMD aims to scale nationally before pursuing global expansion in healthcare automation. (Link)
